Deportations

50X1-HUM

1. In 1951, 6-7000 Lithuanians were deported to Krasnoyarsk, the Donbas, Mongolia, and Vorkuta. The deportations affected the following categories of Lithuanians:
 - a. all persons connected with the partisan movement, e.g. contact men, the relatives of partisans, partisan supporters
 - b. all those substantial farmers who had in any way manifested opposition to collectivization.
2. The deportations of 1951 were conducted in a comparatively mild way. Deported families were allowed to take with them up to one ton of personal property and any money which they possessed. They were allowed from six to ten hours to prepare for their journeys. Deportations were conducted in two separate operations, one in August and another in December. Among those deported from the towns were also about 60-70 [redacted] families. The reasons for their deportations are not known. 50X1-H

Arrests

3. Compared with 1949-1950, there were fewer arrests in Lithuania; in 1951. In Vilnius, apart from the arrests of criminals, there were not more than 30-50 persons arrested, in Kaunas 70-100, in the provinces about 300.
